JAPAN OFFERS COUNTER-PROPOSAL

WANTS GUARANTEES FOR SAFETY BEFORE
TROOPS EVACUATED

Demands That League
Obtain Agreement
From China

GENEVA, Oct. 23.—A formal demand that China furnish complete guarantees that the lives and property of Japanese nationals will be protected before evacuation of troops from recently occupied territory in Manchuria begins was placed before the League of Nations Council by the Japanese delegation today.

The demand was embodied in a counter-proposal to the resolution introduced yesterday by the five leading members of the league council. The new Japanese proposal, cabled by the Tokyo government to Kenichi Yoshikawa, its league representative, did not constitute definite rejection of the council's resolution but suggested a number of important alterations.

The principal alteration proposed in the resolution is the suggestion that the council call upon China for "effective guarantees of the lives and property of Japanese nationals" before calling on Japan to begin its evacuation.

The Japanese counter-proposal, it was learned, was privately circulated among members of the league council shortly after noon, to give them time to study it before the council reconvened in formal session at 5 p. m.

As a concession to China, the Japanese proposal, it was understood, eliminated the clause of the original resolution demanding China give "reassurance of treaty rights." This, however, will be implied in the general demand for protection of lives and property, inferentially meaning Japan's existing treaty rights in Manchuria must be guaranteed and respected by China.

Without saying so in as many words, the Japanese proposal represents Japan's determination to see that the Chinese guarantees are working out effectively before evacuation takes place.

The proposal also dropped article VI of the league resolution which urged "direct negotiations as soon as evacuation is completed." This was done because of the Japanese view that the council should make no recommendations concerning future action before the evacuation is complete.

PEIPING, Oct. 23.—Japanese troops, supported by bombing airplanes, today continued their drive against Chinese bandit troops north of Mukden, according to advice received here.

A statement from the Japanese military headquarters at Mukden described the military movements as measures of self-defense, made necessary by Chinese forays into the zone of the South Manchurian Railway.

Approximately fifty Chinese have been killed in the fighting in the Tiehling area.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Oct. 23.—A Japanese military pilot was instantly killed today when his plane got out of control and crashed in the heart of Mukden.

The accident occurred during annual memorial day ceremonies for those killed and wounded in Japanese wars. The plane was one of a squadron of ten machines which flew in formation over the city while several hundred troops paraded in the streets.

The plane crashed near the memorial monument, many spectators narrowly escaping injury.

TOLEDO WOMAN HEAD OF W. C. T. U. AGAIN

DALTON, O., Oct. 23.—Re-elected for the twentieth time, Mrs. Florence D. Richard of Toledo, today again held the presidency of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Ohio. She was elected at the closing session here yesterday of the 58th annual convention of the organization.

The 1932 convention of the union will be held in Cleveland. Other officers elected yesterday were: Mrs. Viola D. Romans of Columbus, re-elected vice president; Mrs. H. D. Van Kirk of Columbus, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. S. Loomis of Cleveland, recording secretary; Mrs. Anna Davis of Cincinnati, assistant recording secretary; and Mrs. Frances Fuller of Madison, treasurer.

ARREST WOMAN SMOKER
NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. 23.—Arrested for smoking a cigarette on the street while she window shopped, Mrs. Leora Backus, 16, of Holloway, was to be given a hearing in juvenile court here today on a delinquency charge.

XENIA MAY LOSE NATIONAL GUARD UNIT AND HAVE ARMORY HERE CLOSED

ADMITS KILLING

Accidental discharge of a gun, which she was holding in her hand as a threat to make Willis H. Brown, below, keep a promise to marry her, caused his death, according to the story of Mrs. Maude G. Malloy above, to Columbus, O., police. Mrs. Malloy is a widow and the mother of a 14-year-old son. After the shooting she called police.

CITY BACKING MOVE TO BRING HOSPITAL HERE

Commission Passes Resolution Favoring Proposal

Concerted efforts being made to have the proposed $2,000,000 U. S. veteran's hospital located in or near Xenia had the official sanction and support of the city Friday.

A resolution endorsing the movement to obtain the institution for this city was adopted by City Commission Thursday night and will be forwarded to the local committee formed for the purpose of arguing Xenia's case before the proper authorities soon at Washington, D. C. The resolution reads as follows:

Whereas, the City Commission of the city of Xenia, has been informed that the United States Government has taken steps to erect and maintain a Veteran's Hospital in this section of the country, and

Whereas, a hearing on the choice of location is to be had in the near future before the proper authorities, and

Whereas, the city of Xenia, by reason of its location and natural advantages is the ideal location for the said Veteran's Hospital.

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the City Commission of the city of Xenia:

Section 1.—That the city of Xenia hereby declares itself to be in favor of the location of the proposed Veteran's Hospital in or near this city.

Section 2.—That this City Commission hereby pledges itself to give full support to said movement to locate the proposed Veteran's Hospital in this city, and further pledges the full cooperation of the city of Xenia for such purpose.

Section 3.—The clerk is hereby directed to enroll a certified copy of this resolution, together with the signature of the city officials in accord herewith, and to forward said enrolled copy of this resolution to the proper authorities who have in their power to select the location of the said Veteran's Hospital.

TREASURY BALANCE
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Treasury balance as of Oct. 21, $339,724.14.97; expenditures, $13,169,471.65; customs receipts, $23,271,116.16.

Regimental Headquarters Not Pleased With Failure Of Effort To Reorganize Company Here; New Drive Planned

There is a strong likelihood that Xenia may lose its Ohio National Guard Company.

In this event the city's new $50,000 armory, dedicated less than a year ago, will be closed up and not be available for any purpose.

There is a strong likelihood that Xenia may lose its Ohio of Xenians, representing various civic organizations supporting the proposal to reorganize Company L, 147th Infantry, at a meeting at the O. S. and S. O. Home Thursday noon.

They were met by Colonel Hugo Rudolph, Cincinnati, commander of the 147th Infantry, who did not "beat around the bush" in telling the group that he is displeased with the progress being made here in the campaign to reorganize the company and effect a higher standard for the Guard in Xenia.

Faced by the possibility of losing the Guard company and the armory, for which so much was promised when it was dedicated less than a year ago, the joint committee supporting the reorganization left the meeting determined to bend every effort toward conducting an educational campaign that will recruit the company to full strength under the new program of operating it on a higher plane than in the past.

Colonel Rudolph was accompanied here by Major C. A. King, Cincinnati, instructor from the regular army who is assigned to the 147th regiment. Both made it plain that the regiment has set certain standards that have not been lived up to in Xenia and that the company could be placed quickly in other cities where the communities are prepared to maintain these standards.

The program coordinates with the ambition of Captain Harold L. Hays, company commander, who Commissioners had recently advised the state committee that this county, not having been as hard hit as majority of other Ohio counties by the depression, would not likely be in need of extraordinary relief measures this winter.

Mr. Swearingen will suggest to the board, however, that an unemployment committee be organized, composed of a member of the board of commissioners, the county school superintendent, county director of public health, representatives of the American Legion and Red Cross and any other agencies desired.

The immediate purpose of the committee, as he explained Friday, would be to make a survey of the

TEN FLEE FLAMES IN APARTMENT HOUSE

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23.—Ten socially prominent persons were forced to flee to the street here today when fire broke out in a six-suite apartment building. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Miss Jean Winton, 18, daughter of Alexander E. Winton, pioneer automobile manufacturer, jumped twenty feet to the ground and brought a ladder to aid Mrs. Walter Williams, her hostess, and Jean Williams, 18, to flee from the burning structure.

WOMEN NOT BARRED
CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 23.—Funeral directing as a profession is in no way limited to men, Lon S. Ashley, president of the Casket Manufacturers Association of America revealed here today. There are more than 300 women employed as funeral directors throughout the country, he stated.

GRANDMOTHER DIES
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Utz, 90, of Cincinnati, grandmother of J. Powell Croesley, Jr., prominent radio manufacturer, was dead here today of senility at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George A. Caskey. The body will be returned to Cincinnati for funeral services and burial.

TRUCK KILLS CHILD
MARTINS FERRY, O., Oct. 23.—Injured when he was run down by a truck yesterday as he was walking home from school, six-year-old Robert Jones died here today. The driver of the truck, E. E. Griffith of Cortland, O., was exonerated of blame.

EDISON SUGGESTED FOR ATTEMPT TO SPAN LIFE AND DEATH

Copyright 1931, by I. N. S.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Thomas A. Edison, the man who lived an agnostic and was buried as a Christian last Wednesday night, is a perfect model, with his tremendous intelligence, for those who believe it is possible for the dead to communicate with the living.

Already there has been a number of prophecies that Edison will join with Sir Oliver Lodge, A. Con- Doyle and Houdini in their attempt to reach back to this earth and the loved ones they left behind them when they died.

If the wish of the individual who died has anything to do with it, Edison will not be heard from, He had no belief whatever in life after death. He said so on many occasions, notably in an exclusive interview he granted to Charles Grant Miller, International News Service staff correspondent, on February 7, 1921, which was published widely on the following day.

Miller, in the first question he put to the great inventor, went straight to the heart of this matter. "Do you think it possible," he asked Edison, "that you may devise any mechanism through which when you have left this life, you may hope to communicate with us?"

"If my theory is correct," answered Edison, "that the machine

NEW CLUE SEEN IN SEARCH FOR TRUNK SLAYER

Witness' Story May Change Turn Of Investigation

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—The feverish hunt for Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, sought for the gruesome trunk murders of her two chums, turned into another channel today with announcement by police investigators that a new witness has been located.

This hitherto unknown witness, Russell Blake Howe, a student of music at the University of Southern California, came forward with a story that prompted officials to decide to again question Mrs. Judd's brother, Barton McKinnell, regarding the missing woman's whereabouts.

Howe's account, according to detectives, shed new light on McKinnell's movements after he and his sister had failed to obtain delivery at a railway station of the trunks containing the battered bodies of Agnes Lerol and Hedwig Samuelson. The trunks had been shipped as baggage from Phoenix, Arizona.

At 8 p. m. Monday night, Howe informed authorities, he had talked with McKinnell and the latter had said his sister was in deep trouble and has asked for the loan of some money. The conversation, according to the music student, occurred only a few hours after McKinnell and the suspected murderer called at the railway station.

"If you ever wanted to help me, help me now," McKinnell pleaded, according to Howe. "My sister has become involved in a terrible tragedy, a horrible crime. I need some money—anything—five dollars. I have none at all and she has practically none."

Howe said he refused to lend money to McKinnell and that the hunted woman's brother then sought a loan from another student.

From Howe's account, police deduced the theory, suggested previously during the investigation, that Mrs. Judd may still be in Los Angeles or the vicinity, sheltered from the law by relatives or friends.

Howe's evidence, investigators pointed out, throws doubt on the account given by McKinnell who said that he had let Mrs. Judd out of his automobile a few minutes after leaving the station and that he never saw or heard from her again.

If Mrs. Judd is captured alive she will have her constitutional rights fully protected. Her husband, Dr. William C. Judd, retained two attorneys to attend to his wife's legal interests, should she be captured. The lawyers are Lois P. Russell and Richard H. Canfield. The latter was associated in the defense four years ago of the notorious William Edward Hickman who went to the gallows for the brutal slaying of twelve-year-old Marion "Arker."

Dr. Judd also issued an appeal addressed to his wife begging her to surrender. He reiterated his belief that the missing woman has probably taken her own life.

David Davidson, inspector of detectives in charge of the search however, affirmed his belief that Mrs. Judd is alive and in Los Angeles.

Davidson said he was "sure" that just as soon as a legal defense had been perfected for Mrs. Judd she would surrender.

Secrecy surrounded certain investigations he conducted yesterday. Reports persisted that police had learned Mrs. Judd was seen here Tuesday night, twenty-four hours after she and her brother, had been denied the murder trunks at the railroad station by a baggage man.

Meanwhile the relentless search for Mrs. Judd continued along the Pacific Coast, through border states, and at the Mexican border near Tijuana and Mexicali.

LOS ANGELES ON TRIP
LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 23.—The U. S. Navy dirigible Los Angeles left her hangar here this morning for an all-day training flight over New Jersey. She was expected to take part in the air show at the Jersey City airport for the benefit of the unemployed.

CHICAGO NEXT STOP FOR LINDBERGH

ROCK SPRINGS, WYO., Oct. 23.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh took off at 6:12 a. m. (MST) today for Chicago where they expect to make a brief stop before going on to New York tonight.

Landing at the Rock Springs airport at 5:15 p. m. Thursday the Lindberghs were unexpected guests of this little mining town last night. They were called back from their aerial vacation in the Orient by the death of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, United States Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey.

TEACHERS CONVENE
CAMBRIDGE, O., Oct. 23.—More than 3,000 teachers were expected to attend the annual meeting of the Eastern Ohio Teachers' Association which opens here today. The sessions will continue through Saturday.

ENLARGE PLANT
DAYTON, O., Oct. 23.—Additions of plant equipment and personnel are likely to be made at the McCall Co. here within the next eight months to take care of expected increased magazine production.

DAUGHTER ACCOMPANIES PREMIER

Accompanied by his daughter, Josette, Premier Laval of France is shown here on arrival in the United States, prior to departing for New York for Washington for his interviews with President Hoover. Mlle. Laval expressed delight with the sights in New York during the few hours they remained there.

BRITISH ARE FACING OUTBREAK ON CYPRUS

Forces Being Rushed To Subdue Revolt On Island

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The weight of the British empire was being thrown today against a few thousand agitators in the Mediterranean island of Cyprus, who have raised the standard of revolt against British rule there.

By warship, airplane and railroad, the colonial office stated today, troops were being rushed to the crown colony midway between Asia Minor and Syria to quell the rioting among the Cypriotes who are demanding that their home be ceded to Greece.

The admiralty announced that the destroyer Acasta and the cruiser Shropshire reached Cyprus before 9 a. m. today, and that the cruiser London and the destroyer Achates were expected to arrive during the day.

Six troop-carrying airplanes, packed with riflemen, are following the air lanes from Alexandria, Egypt and a company of the king's rifles has been sent from Port Said.

Furious mobs were meanwhile rioting in the towns of Larnaca, Kyrenia, Limassol and Famagusta, according to reports reaching here from Cyprus.

The official residence at Nicosia has been set afire by the fanatical advocates of ending British rule over the island which Great Britain has held since the early years of the World War and had administered for many years before that.

Schwab Says Financial World Straightened Out

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Declaring that the financial world was straightening itself out and that the house of steel was now in order, Charles M. Schwab, veteran soldier of the steel industry, today sounded a trumpet call to the members of the American Iron and Steel Institute to "sail into the job" of improving economic conditions.

Schwab, president of the institute and chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, asserted that "industry has gotten its second wind" and that "economy and efficiency" would lead business out of the depression.

"The improving of our credit structure by virtue of the steps advocated by President Hoover and the bankers is a fundamental step in the right direction," Schwab told the general meeting of the institute.

"Fear has been lessened. There will be no collapse. The sources of credit have been mobilized and we shall pull through."

Schwab listed the necessary steps for improving conditions as follows:

"A better financial structure, which is now under way."

"A liquidation of extravagances in business including prices, which has already taken place in most lines to an abnormal extent."

"A reduction in the cost of gov-

PREMIER EXPECTED TO EMPHASIZE IDEA
IN HOOVER MEETING

Would Make Armament
Concessions If Pact
Agreed Upon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—French and American policies in the affairs of a weary world—which have been radically divergent in recent years—were placed vis-a-vis today in the persons of President Hoover and Premier Laval.

Their conferences, beginning today, will run the gamut of international irritants, from war debts to reparations, from disarmament to the question of France's "security," from gold reserves to the matter of extending the international debt moratorium.

Out of these discussions may come much—or nothing.

Washington is hopeful for much, hopeful of a reconciliation of Franco-American views that will spell cooperation in the future. But, in view of France's intransigent views on disarmament, security, and reparations, there is behind this attitude of hopefulness a very discernible air of skepticism that either the French or the American viewpoints will be materially altered by the brief three days of personal contact. The differences are held to be too deep-seated for ready solution.

Neither Premier Laval nor President Hoover would admit having a definite program to offer the other today.

The French statesman said that he was here as the guest of the American government to discuss world problems.

Administration spokesmen simply stated that there was no program, and that the discussions would be of a very informal nature.

It was made very evident, however, that the thought uppermost in the French premier's mind is to win over the United States to the old idea of entering into a security pact, either through the agency originally proposed by Woodrow Wilson, or by implementing the Kellogg-Briand pact for the outlawry of war. This could be accomplished by the device known as a "consultative pact," in which the signatory nations would agree to consult among themselves to determine the aggressor in the event of war.

Given such a guarantee, the

ATTORNEY GENERAL UPHELD IN OPINION

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—The contention of Attorney General Gilbert B. Sweeney that common pleas courts have no power to appoint receivers for building and loan associations except upon application of the State Superintendent of Building and Loan Associations through the attorney general, was upheld here today by the Ohio Supreme Court.

Complying with the application of the attorney general, the supreme court allowed a writ of prohibition preventing the Franklin County Common Pleas Court from appointing a receiver for the Columbus Building and Loan Association at Columbus.

Counsel for the Building Association of about 500 building and loan associations in Ohio, representing ninety-five per cent of the total assets of all building and loan associations in the state, supported Bettman in his case.

REPORT CURTIS TO BE OIL MEN'S CZAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—A report that the American oil industry plans to draft Vice President Charles Curtis as its czar provoked considerable discussion today in Republican circles.

While Curtis denied "having received any offer," his friends believed American oil producers have such plan in formation. It was said a decision would be reached at the American Petroleum Institute's annual meeting in November.

REP. HALE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE DIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Representative Fletcher Hale, 48, Republican of New Hampshire, was dead today. He succumbed to pneumonia which attacked him while returning on the S. S. President Harding from Bucharest.

Congressman Hale had been taken from the incoming liner yesterday and transferred to the United States Naval Hospital, Brooklyn. He died late last night.

FORMER SOLOD WEDS

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 23.—Victor Heintz, former Republican congressman from the second Ohio district, was a groom today, following his marriage yesterday to Miss Frances Williamson. Heintz entered congress in 1916, vacating his seat to enter the army during the World War.

TEACHERS CONVENE
CAMBRIDGE, O., Oct. 23.—More than 3,000 teachers were expected to attend the annual meeting of the Eastern Ohio Teachers' Association which opens here today. The sessions will continue through Saturday.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR HUSKING CONTEST ON HARVEST FIELD DAY

Plans for the Corn Harvest Field Day and Husking Contest to be held at the O. A. Dobbins farm, Thursday, October 29 were worked out at a committee meeting this week.

John Collins, Grant Miller and J. R. Kimmer were appointed as judges of the contest; D. C. Bradtute, timekeeper and starter; O. A. Dobbins in charge of wagons and E. A. Drake, scorekeeper.

The contest, which is to select the champion corn husker from Greene County, is open to anyone in the county and will be conducted as nearly as possible according to the rules and regulations governing the state and national contests.

The contestants shall husk for a given length of time into a wagon on two rows of standing corn reasonably free from husks. Where possible the contestant should furnish his wagon, team and driver. However, where this cannot be done the committee in charge will furnish them. Each wagon will have a referee and gleaner whose duty it is to see that the rules are followed and that corn missed by the husker will be gathered by the gleaner.

Three times the weight of the marketable corn left behind in the field will be deducted from the weight of the load. The ears shall be husked reasonably clean. An average of not more than five ounces of husks per 100 pounds of ear corn shall be allowed without deduction. For each ounce more than five ounces and less than ten pounds per 100 pounds of corn, one percent of the weight of the corn husked into the wagon box shall be deducted, and for every ounce more than nine ounces, three percent shall be deducted.

Contestants shall notify County Agent Drake not later than midnight October 27 of their intentions to compete in order that arrangements can be made to take care of them.

The winner of the contest will represent the county at the state meet in Miami County November 4, where a prize of $50 cash, the Ohio Champion Silver Trophy and a free trip to the national contest in Iowa will be awarded.

The husking contest is scheduled to start at 8:30 a. m. and continue during the afternoon. At noon the Ladies Aid Society of the Cedarville United Presbyterian Church will serve luncheon on the grounds. After noon J. A. Silpher of the soils and crops department of Ohio State University will speak on "What Fertilizer Practices Should a Corn Grower Follow Under Present Conditions," and R. D. Barden of the agricultural engineering department of the university will speak on "The Place of Machinery in Corn Production."

Various types and makes of corn machinery will be demonstrated. These machines will be actually operated in the field by representatives of the manufacturer so that comparisons can be made of the mechanical huskers under similar conditions.

If the weather is such that the day will not be suitable for the event it will be held on Saturday, October 31.

NEW BUSINESS TO OCCUPY ROOM HERE

Ernest H. Schmidt, Xenia realtor, disclosed Thursday that the room at 47 W. Main St., in a building owned by the H. E. Schmidt estate, is being remodeled for occupancy by a new local business enterprise, a paint, glass and wall paper store. The location was formerly used by the Xenia Fruit Co.

The interior of the room is being renovated and the front of the building redecorated. The new concern, the nature of which was not disclosed, is expected to open for business about November 7. It will also utilize the basement and a rear first floor room.

HOME FURNISHING SPECIALIST HERE

Greene County women are to have the pleasure of having Miss Anne Biebricher, home furnishing specialist of Ohio State University, discuss "Color and Materials Suitable for Living Rooms" at the Xenia Central High School Cafeteria the afternoon of November 6, says Miss Ruth Radford, home demonstration agent. Miss Biebricher comes to us highly recommended and has spent quite a little time in the study of home furnishing problems. Another feature of the afternoon's program will be a chance to ask questions and discuss individual problems. Every woman in Greene County is cordially invited.

HIGHWAY DIRECTOR WILL RECEIVE BIDS

Bids on bridge construction projects in Greene County estimated to cost $28,724.35 will be received by O. W. Merrell, state highway director, until 2 p. m. November 6 in connection with Governor George White's winter bridge building program, state-wide in scope, for relief of unemployment.

Local labor is to be employed almost exclusively by the contractors who are successful bidders.

The program authorized for this county includes erection of a concrete beam bridge with a forty-five-foot span and twenty-four-foot roadway over Caesar's creek and a concrete beam bridge, including two thirty-foot spans and twenty-four-foot roadway over the north branch of Caesar's creek on state highways 29 and 11. The date for completion is May 31, 1932.

HALLOWEEN PARTY IS ENJOYED AT SCHOOL

A program by pupils of the four grades of Orient Hill School was presented at the school's annual Halloween party Thursday evening. The evening's festivities opened with a "grand march" and prizes were awarded several of the masqueraders.

"Little Orphan Annie" was presented by girls of the first and second grades and six first grade boys presented "Six Little Brownies." Marjorie Clark gave a group of readings and a sketch "Peter Pumpkin Face" was given by pupils of the third and fourth grades. A playlet, "The Ghost Walks" was given by Julia Hook, Betty Stark, and Helen Lewis. Short talks were given by Julia Hook, Betty Stark and Helen Lewis. Short talks were given by Mr. F. R. Woodruff, principal of Central Hill School, and Mr. Louis Clark, member of the board of education.

A social time was enjoyed later and refreshments were served.

PUPILS PRESENT RECITAL AT HALLOWEEN PARTY HERE

Piano pupils of Miss Marjorie Street presented a recital Thursday evening when they were entertained by their teacher at a Halloween party at her home on E. Third St.

Each of the piano numbers was played from memory and the pupils showed progress in their work. Those taking part in the recital were James Lytle, Jane Lunsford, Paul Rager, Ruth Hammerle, Alice Jean Balmer, Ruth Turnbull, Susie and Evelyn Sharp, Ethel Marie Hyman, Marie Truesdale, Rachel Bell, Mary Davidson and Doris Reed.

The children wore Halloween costumes and later games and contests were enjoyed. Refreshments, with the appointments suggested by the program, were served following the program.

XENIA WOMEN ATTEND PRESBYTERIAL MEETING

A group of women from the Presbyterian Church attended a meeting of the Dayton Presbyterian of the Springfield district at Covenant Presbyterian Church, Springfield, Thursday. Mrs. Harry D. Smith, this city, conducted the devotional period at the session and Mrs. Paul D. Espey gave a talk on "Stewardship" during the morning.

Those present from Xenia were Mrs. Harry D. Smith, Mrs. Paul D. Espey, Mrs. Frank Espey, Miss Flora Nisbet, Miss Effie Hempelman, Mrs. H. E. Kiernan, Mrs. R. O. Wead, Mrs. C. C. Henrie, Mrs. George Baldwin, Miss Ida Rogers, Mrs. O. K. Probasco, Mrs. Charles Kinsey and her guests, Mrs. Charles Sherwood and Miss J. L. Brown, Watervliet, Mich.

CHILDREN ENJOY HALLOWEEN PARTY

Paul Buckles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Buckles, N. Galloway St., entertained a group of his classmates at a masquerade party at his home Thursday evening. Games and contests were enjoyed and refreshments, carrying out the Halloween idea, were served the guests.

Donald Taffinger was presented a prize for wearing the best costume and prize winners in the contests were Charles Kinsey, Earl Butler, Charles Babb and Robert Pramer.

CHURCH ENJOYS HALLOWEEN SOCIAL

Fifty members and friends of Eleazer Church were entertained at a Halloween social at the church, south of Xenia, Thursday evening. Mrs. J. B. Mason was presented a prize for wearing the most clever costume and Mrs. Lewis Weaver won a prize for the most comical costume.

A covered dish supper was served in the basement and later games and contests were enjoyed. Mrs. Emory Oglesbee and Mrs. Maude Peterson were in charge of the affair and Mr. Walter Stearns and Mr. Thurman Middleton were appointed to be in charge of the next social meeting.

"BULK,"

VITAMIN B, IRON

All in
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

If you suffer from ordinary constipation, you will be benefited by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Millions have found it brings relief.

Scientific tests show ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk," Vitamin B, and iron. "Bulk" promotes elimination. Vitamin B tones the intestinal tract. Iron helps build blood.

In the package, ALL-BRAN has a shredded appearance. But within the body, it changes to a soft mass, which gently cleanses the intestines. It is much like the "bulk" in lettuce or spinach.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Try two table-spoonfuls daily for a week. ALL-BRAN is natural—far better than pills or drugs, which may cause too strenuous action.

ALL-BRAN is already cooked, flavored and krumbled—bran in its finest form. Serve as a cereal or try the delicious recipes on the package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

COMMITTEE IS MAKING PROGRESS IN EFFORTS TO OBTAIN HOSPITAL

Grounded by Soviet

Plans for financing Xenia's campaign to get location here of the proposed $2,000,000 U. S. Veterans' Bureau Hospital were discussed this week by the joint committee of representatives of civic organizations which is looking after Xenia's interests.

The joint committee is composed of representatives of Poody Post, American Legion, the Retail Merchants Association and the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs. This group organized this week and a finance committee composed of P. E. Cox, C. W. Adair and D. W. Cherry, was appointed.

A representative of this committee will appear in Washington at the public hearing on selection of a hospital site October 30 and in addition will present a brief elaborately prepared setting forth completely Xenia's claims and advantages. A sub-committee that visited the bureau in Washington Monday obtained data concerning what is needed in a hospital site and learned that this city can not only qualify as a location but that in some respects its claims are much better than those to be presented by larger communities.

The committee feels that, while the possibility of this city obtaining the hospital may seem remote, the selection of Xenia depends on the ability of those in charge of the drive to sell this city's advantages to the Veterans' Bureau.

Going to Russia more than a year ago with the intention of making Soviet women take an interest in aviation, Fay Gillis, pretty American aviatrix, is back home disillusioned. Miss Gillis was only allowed to fly once during her stay in Russia and that was when she was on the way home. She flew as a passenger from Moscow to Berlin.

Mr. Charles Bone will give a talk and Mrs. J. E. Balmer will give a report of the state convention of the P. T. A. in Dayton recently. Both fathers and mothers of school children are invited to attend.

The Foreign Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church will hold a "calico tea" Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. T. Whittington, 623 N. West St. All women of the church are invited and are asked to be dressed in calico.

Mrs. Victor Moore, N. Detroit St., returned home Wednesday from Detroit, Mich., and Windsor, Canada, where she spent a week with friends.

Services of the First M. E. Church will be held at Central High School Auditorium Sunday as repairs are being made to the church. Sunday School will be held at 9:15 o'clock followed by preaching services at 10:30 o'clock in charge of the Rev. W. N. Shank. A special musical number will be presented by Mr. Roy Siefert at the morning service.

Patrons of the Xenia Little Theater Guild or any one interested in its performances are urged to purchase their season tickets as soon as possible as the opening number, "Adam and Eva", will be presented Tuesday evening. Members holding tickets for sale are asked to make a report to Mr. H. A. Higgins, membership chairman.

Mrs. Adam Anweiler, Dayton, is spending the week end with her sister, Mrs. E. E. Lighthizer, S. Monroe St.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Lawson, E. Church St., will have as their guests over the week end, Mr. Lawson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lawson and daughter, of Newcastle, Ind.

WILL SING SUNDAY

Ralph Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Baldwin, N. King St., and a student of the music department of Miami University, Oxford, O., is spending the week end with his parents. He will sing a special arrangement of "The Holy City" at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Mr. Baldwin is a member of the Miami University Glee Club which will sing at the Southwestern Ohio District Teachers' meeting at Emory Auditorium, Cincinnati, October 30.

Mr. Donald Anderson, Piketon, O., returned home Wednesday after a short visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Anderson, W. Market St., and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cowan, W. Second St.

Miss Ethel Highley, W. Market St., who underwent a serious operation at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Wednesday was reported to be resting comfortably Friday.

The Eastern Star party at the Masonic Temple will be held Monday evening A. 7:30 o'clock instead of Tuesday evening as previously announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Lackey and daughter, Nora Frances, who have been visiting relatives in Xenia and Wilmington the past two weeks, left for their home in Mt. Airy, N. C., Friday.

Regular Sunday School services will be held at the Old Town M. E. Church Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Scripture reading is to be participated in by the school following the class sessions.

Mrs. Newton Ledbetter, Dayton, will arrive here Saturday to spend a week with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Orin G. Ledbetter, W. Third St.

SUPPLYING SCHOOL CHILDREN'S NEEDS KEEPS CHAPTER BUSY

The major work of the Greene County Red Cross, during September was outfitting school children with clothing according to the monthly report submitted by Miss Emma F. Lyon, executive secretary. During the month 136 children were supplied with clothing from the supply closet and new shoes and clothing were furnished twenty-three children. An appeal made for clothing met with immediate response.

Other work of the chapter during the month follows: office interviews with the applicants in person and by phone, 108; office interviews with consultative in person and by phone, 251; calls made on applicants in person and by phone, seventy-five; calls made in behalf of applicants in person and by phone, 123.

Twenty-five soldiers' cases were acted upon during September besides nine cases of soldiers' families and 206 civilian cases. One school child was given treatment for his eyes by Drs. Madden and Shields and medicine was purchased for two children. Food was supplied in nineteen families and coal was supplied to one family.

The chapter appreciates the co-operation of the following persons and agencies during the month: Mrs. L. E. Bryson, Mrs. F. W. Clarke, Mrs. Charles Kinsey, Mrs. J. B. Watt, G. J. Graham, Mrs. Florence McKeever, Mrs. John Van Eaton, Mrs. Purl Cox, Mrs. Frank Hastings, Miss Margaret Moorhead, Mrs. Earl McClelland, Mrs. Elizabeth Han'v, Mrs. D. L. Crawford, Mrs. P. D. Lackey, Miss Cora Williams, the O. S. and S. O. Home, Miss Ino Marshall, Mrs. Fannie Moore, Mrs. A. D. Chamberlin.

Mrs. W. A. King Jr., Mrs. J. J. Stout, Howard Jones, the Rev. W. F. W. Foster, George C. Stokes, Mrs. O. J. Lowe, M. A. Smith, Mrs. J. H. Nagley, Miss Emma Treasle, Mrs. Albert Bickett, Mrs. Steele Poague, Mrs. R. O. Wead, Mrs. W. N. Shank, Mrs. J. A. Chew, Miss Ruby Johnston, Mrs. T. F. Myler and "a friend."

Other games to be broadcast include: The Army-Yale game at 1 p. m. through WEAF, WABC, WSM, and WKRC.

Navy vs. Princeton will be heard over stations WJZ, WJR, and WLW starting at 2:45 p. m. Notre Dame vs. Pittsburgh through WBBM, Chicago. Minnesota vs. Iowa by WCCO and KSTP.

Illinois vs. Michigan through WGN. Chicago vs. Indiana by KYW.

MISSIONARY WILL SPEAK AT SERVICES

Dr. G. A. Sowash, a veteran missionary from Omdurman, Sudan, India, will speak at union services of the First and Second U. P. Churches at the First Church Sunday, evening at 7:30 o'clock. It is announced, Dr. Sowash is a member of a missionary team sent out to address the U. P. churches of this synod and it is expected he will use stereopticon slides in illustrating the life of the Sudanese Shilluks, Nueres and other tribes.

Local delegates to a recent meeting of the Synod at Richmond, Ind., heard Dr. Sowash and report that he is a forceful and interesting speaker. Music for Sunday evening will be furnished by a male chorus who will lead the singing and present a special anthem. The public is invited to the service.

POLICE ASKED TO SEARCH FOR MISSING BOY

Attorney Charles F. Points, Jr., Wilberforce, has appealed to police for aid in a search for his 13-year-old half brother, Frederick Ryan Points, freshman at Central High School in this city, who has been missing since Tuesday afternoon.

Fear that the boy may have been kidnapped was expressed by Mr. Points. The youth, a Gazette carrier for the last three or four years, had gone on his paper route after school, and inquiries disclosed he had delivered all but one of his papers. He has not been seen since.

When last seen, the boy was dressed in a tan suit, faded light tan sweater, wore a tan cap and tan low cut shoes.

New Scientific Method of Eye Care

Many persons now wearing glasses, may have them eliminated, or the strength of their lenses reduced by our scientific method of Eye Development.

Dimness of vision can be corrected in many cases, and weak eyes strengthened.

When glasses are necessary, they are made more nearly perfect than ever before.

All these advancements have required a great amount of study, research and observation over a period of years.

LAVAL RETICENT

Up to the time he left France Premier Laval was extremely reticent about the plans for his campaign in Washington. However, he seems to have grown less coy after encountering ocean breezes for a time, because a wireless from the Ile de France informs the world that he has arrived at "a definite formula" for budget arms limitation, and will call for reduction of "the amount to be spent by nations on arms to a fixed sum, the limitation to be controlled by some international body with the World Court the final authority." The report says likewise, "If President Hoover insists on any disarmament pledge from Laval that undoubtedly will be the final concession the French will make. The only way France would submit to a general scaling down of her armed strength would be in return for a guarantee against invasion."

It may be that the wireless report fails to present M. Laval's attitude and plans accurately, but in case it does, the French Premier's reason for coming to the United States, so far as promotion of the cause of international disarmament is concerned, remains obscure.

The government of the United States has indicated repeatedly that the budgetary plan for arms limitation, as that plan generally is understood, is quite impossible of acceptance by his country. It costs America so much more per capita to equip, maintain and pay the personnel of its army and navy than it costs France or any other Old World country, that a sum which would be sufficient to keep up a very respectable European defense establishment would not allow the United States to retain a force that would be more than a derision. If M. Laval has in mind the old scheme for budgetary limitation, he is looking in advance for a rebuff.

It is, of course, a mere absurdity to suppose that this nation would become a party to an agreement guaranteeing France against invasion. The French Premier could scarcely make such a suggestion in good faith, and it seems scarcely credible that he really purposes advancing the proposal.

SETTLES THAT

An apparently reliable report says that Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, widow of the recently deceased senator from New Jersey, would not accept a seat in the Senate even if Gov. Larson offered it to her. That seems to settle that.

Soon after Sen. Morrow's death, a suggestion was heard that his widow be appointed to fill out a portion of his term. Judging from Mrs. Morrow's declaration of the honor, she was not party to the suggestion. She has honored herself by refusing to aid a movement not altogether unlike the election or appointment of congresswomen to seats vacated by their husbands a practice hardly more complimentary to them than to our national legislature.

If a woman has the qualifications of a senator, as Mrs. Morrow doubtless has, the fact that her husband was a senator does not render those qualifications the less; if, on the other hand, she does not possess those qualifications, the fact that her husband was a senator will not give them to her. The two things are unconnected. Confusing them would in time make Congress ridiculous.

WORTH OF A GOOD WORKER

People who hesitate about taking hold and doing their share of public work, should think of all the appreciation that a good community worker gets. They may think that if they hold some public position or organization office, they get nothing but kicks. But while they may get plenty of complaints, yet the community or groups of people depend on such ones, and look to them for leadership.

A person who has worked for the good of an organization or the community, demonstrates his competence to take on responsibilities. The consequence is that people have more faith in such a person. When someone is wanted for some important position, they look to such a person as the one who can fill the place.

Another rare stamp is that of genius.

"Saving England" was easy for a Scotchman.

"There is something in October that sets the gypsy blood astir."

Even a divorce must be rather unexciting after a person has had three or four.

Ah, well! There is a Santa Claus, and it will not be long now before he is here.

The need for supermen is not nearly as great as the need for a good breed of average men.

The governorship of Louisiana must be an eminently desirable billet, when three men claim it at one and the same time.

Gold dispersal may be the silver lining of the economic cloud we have been reading so much about this past year or so.

Archbishop Whately once observed that "honesty is the best policy, but he who acts on that principle is not an honest man."

Another surplus the country seems to find it impossible profitably to export is made up of its racketeers. Why not plow a few of them under?

The Florida Times-Union says it has got so now "that almost any girl with a good job can get married." Well, is it so hard for "almost any man" with a good job to get married?

A "Clean Neighborhood Club" was raided by the Chicago police and thousands of dollars worth of stolen goods recovered. The clubsters had cleaned their neighborhood all right.

A long distance has been traveled since Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown, when the sentiments inspired by the celebration of that event are those of cordiality rather than distrust.

Of course, it is also true that Premier Laval is not altogether a free agent. He will have to speak while here with the knowledge that a capricious House of Deputies is constantly listening in.

Premier Mussolini has boycotted sumptuous banquets and functions. He says they are out of place in "these hard times," and he refuses to go to them. There's another reason why Il Duce has a hold on the rank and file of the Italian people.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The tenement children who romp among the heavy traffic of New York are a ceaselessly amazing brood. They grow wise quickly, and, it may be, they grow hard, too; but they seem to retain most of the charm of childhood.

All of them and summer they play baseball in the street below my window. But on the last day of the World series, I have noticed, they switch promptly to football. And the ingenuity exercised in creating a gridiron on asphalt pavements, without markings and without a soft spot to fall, is astonishing.

The kids are richly endowed, also, with humor. Bunter they exchange or hurl at passersby is good natured on the whole, and often tartly to the point. This morning, walking in East Fifth street, I noticed that a heated altercation had interrupted a pigskin joust between Knickerbocker teams.

The players were gathered in an excited group near the curb. It appeared that the oldest of the gang was accused of a major infraction of rules.

"Who'd ya think y'are?" an urchin of eight or nine was demanding hotly, "Bishop Cannon?"

PRIVILEGED POOR

I am reminded, incidentally, that those rough-and-ready youngsters from two-family flats are more blessed in many ways than the offspring of families neither rich nor poor. They have scores of playgrounds for their use, if they could be enticed from the favorite block; they are sent off by newspapers, magazines and foundations to weeks of summer fun at camp.

No such opportunities await the sons and daughters of families too poor to be rich and too proud to be poor. In many neighborhoods where dwell so-called middle-class folk, children are permitted to use playgrounds only upon the payment of a fee. This is a high as $3 per month in one case. I know. If they go away to camp, dad must foot the bill—and usually dad can't, particularly now.

TRIBUTE

The flowers laid about the statue of Columbus, in the circle of that name, have been carted away, frost-bitten and forlorn. But when Columbus day pilgrims trekked to the Circle to lay their tributes down, the shaft was gay with blooms. A large percentage of the offerings were from Italians.

Which reminds me that the Italians, along with the French, are the world's champion donors of floral displays. Even the French stay well behind in second place. The statue of Garibaldi, in Washington square, is nearly always bedecked with flowers—located as it is, close to the Italian settlement. And if you want a funeral display costing more than $1,500 you can usually have it made up without so much as a raised eyebrow in any florist shop of the Ghetto.

PROMOTION WORK

In the Manhattan neighborhood where, to judge from the awnings of children about, such proselytizing is least necessary, merchants conduct an incessant campaign to lure couples into matrimony. Nuptial accessories are the predominant note in at least half of the shops.

The district begins around Third street and continues on either side of Second avenue to 15th street. Almost every woman's wear shop exhibits a bridal dress in its window. Men's shops advertise wedding suits for rent. Photographers pick for display pictures of weddings, wedding parties, wedding couples. Bakeries announce without exception that they specialize in wedding catering. Halls and clubs have signs offering wedding halls for rent. Restaurants note on their menus that private rooms are available for wedding breakfasts.

This sort of bride-baiting puzzles me. I cannot imagine a young man glancing at a shop-window wedding suit and, with a bright smile and a snap of the fingers, murmuring: "That reminds me—"

HISTORIAN SAYS MYSTERY OF PRESENT TO BE CLEAR TO FUTURE GENERATIONS

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — How soon after they happen do national and international events cease to be news and become history?

"Actually occurring events are history in the making," answered Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, "and the moment they have occurred, in a literal sense they are history."

"Still, it is true, more or less time must elapse before they can be considered, for practical purposes, historically."

It was as the country's foremost authority on America's story that the George Washington Bicentennial commission unanimously chose Dr. Hart to be its official historian. For nearly 50 years he has been historical instructor at Harvard. Since the appearance of his "Formation of the Union" in 1892, the books he has given to the world make a good-sized library.

If anyone knows what history is, Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart does. "Perhaps two years," said the professor, "is a fair estimate of the amount of time that a historian should be allowed after the fact of an important event, to digest it. Then it may be that he will require a considerably greater allowance to investigate other facts bearing on it."

"To be general, I think I would say that an event 10 years old can reasonably be regarded as historic."

"Of course," pondered the doctor, "it does frequently happen that fresh light is thrown upon an episode, or sequence of them, after a much longer interval than a mere decade."

"Documentary evidence often is withheld indefinitely. . . . For example, many men in historic key positions keep diaries which, while their authors live, are not made public."

ALL of US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Nothing to Worry About. Shame, Confession, Death, And Family Albums.

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Sometimes, with horror, we realize that we have done something of which we are terribly ashamed. Then we say to ourselves, "Did I really do that? Did I say that thing?" Yes, you said it, you did it. But, on the other hand, at some time in your life you did a brave or a sacrificing thing—which makes amends, a little, for the meanness. It's best not to spend too much time thinking, either, of our degradation or our nobility.

I heard a man say of another man whom the first man adored: "I'm a saturated solution of that man's personality." Only a strong man is capable of giving such credit to another human being. The weak pretend they owe nothing to anybody. Einstein often worries about his debt to previous thinkers.

When you carry a grudge against another human being, if you say to yourself: "Suppose the friend with whom I am offended died tonight and I never saw him again," the burden of the grudge will slip from your shoulders and you will be free. Death shrinks all smaller evils.

deeply studied by succeeding generations.

"What mystifies us, in the midst of it, will be clear to future historians, viewing the epoch in its entirety, but they assuredly will recognize it as a transitional chapter in the chronicle, and, as such, an exceptional chapter."

"Since our problem of mass production already will have explained itself, the solution," said Dr. Hart, "will appear perfectly obvious to them."

"It is anything but obvious now." He rubbed his brow perplexedly.

"With an industrial equipment amply adequate to supply the needs of the whole world's peoples, with a world in dire distress for the very necessities which this equipment could supply so readily and with the industries themselves equally distressed from the lack of demand for their products, we yet are unable to bring all these elements together."

Age No Bar, Says Polly

By LILIAN CAMPBELL

"Age is no bar to success," declares Miss Polly Moran, of the side-splitting Hollywood team of Moran and Dressler.

Miss Moran, whose weekly salary runs into four figures, should know what she is talking about, for she is on the shady side of 40, and her teammate, Marie Dressler, is a great deal older than that. "And look at Marie," says Miss Moran. "She's marvelous! If you're good, you can go on forever. Of course, if you get tottery you're through."

"Documentary evidence often is withheld indefinitely. . . . For example, many men in historic key positions keep diaries which, while their authors live, are not made public."

"State papers, too, filed away and forgotten, sometimes remain gathering dust for years, until discovered by pure accident, occasionally revealing information of the highest historic interest."

Is the world living history today or more than average significance? Or does it simply seem so to us, because it is our own and therefore of especial concern to us?

"Oh, we appear to be living in a period of unquestionably great change," replied the professor, "and therefore a period which will be theater when she reached 40. Polly has been on the stage and screen continuously since she was 13. She has been in pictures for 15 years. She played in vaudeville for years—"Just talking and clowning," as she does in her personal appearances. She prefers the stage to pictures, she declares.

She isn't nervous, she says, at appearing on the stage after years of silent work. It was in the old vaudeville days, when she had to work for applause, unaided and unsung, that she was nervous. "I've been advertised now," she explained.

"What makes people laugh in these days of depression?" I asked. "They laugh at everything," she answered.

Miss Moran denies that she has hobbies.

"I haven't any," she confides. "I read—that is all. What do I read? Everything. From 'True Stories' to Freud, Schopenhauer, H. G. Wells."

H. G. Wells is in the United States now, I reminded her.

"Yes, we'll see him," she averred. "We see all the celebrities in Hollywood. They come to visit the studios. Kings, queens, countesses, broken down princes and authors. We meet them all. Most of the big writers are dull. If you ask them where they get their wonderful ideas they write in their books, they don't know."

No professional jealousy about Polly. She thinks Marie Dressler is responsible for the success of their pictures and repeats, "She's marvelous."

She does believe, however, that the fact that both she and Marie have big deep voices has helped considerably.

"We haven't got the little squeaky voices that you'd expect, you see," she says. "And Marie's grunts and groans—" she laughed reminiscently. I thought she was a little homesick for California and her side partner.

Miss Moran prefers character roles to being a beauty. The lovely heroine are all done in a few years she believes. "Always having to be thinking of their figures," she says, rather scornfully. Polly herself is comfortably plump, as becomes a big business woman.

What does she really look like? Well, I suppose she'll want to kill me if she ever reads this, but she has a "good, kind face." Honest gray eyes, brown hair, very little make-up. Just looks like the kind of person you could rely on—a good neighbor, I'd say.

She is unmarried, but has an adopted son named John.

GRAVITY AT SUN'S SURFACE

The sun's mass (amount of physical matter) is best appreciated by considering its gravitational pull at its surface (superficial gravity). When we are weighed on the scales, we discover how much pull (gravity) the earth's mass has upon us. Our weight depends upon the mass of the earth just as much as upon the mass of our body. The weight of a man upon the moon would be one-sixth of what it is on the earth, the mass of the moon being much less. But at the sun's surface a man would weigh 27.9 times as much as on the earth, the mass in the makeup of the sun being so much greater.

When I was a boy I read a story that impressed me greatly at the time. A man said to a boy who wanted a bicycle, "I'll give you one for your birthday if you'll sweep my barn every day for a month. On the odd dates you must sweep from east to west, on the even dates from west to east." The boy did it, but one day, after he had finished his chore, he realized he had swept in the wrong direction. He worried about it and finally confessed his mistake. The man, as a reward for honesty, gave him the bicycle anyway.

Once I thought that a beautiful moral tale, but of late I've begun to doubt the man's intelligence.

When we are young we believe that when another boy says "I dare you!" it is almost a divine command. As we grow older we understand that he "dares" us to do only the things he is confident he can do, and we lose faith in other people's dares. Or we should do so.

It's a pity the Family Album has gone out. It was interesting, it was more illuminating than any bare genealogical chart, and it never frightened any young men away — the more than one young lady was afraid it might,

"The inference certainly is overwhelming that a cog has slipped somewhere."

"The professor shrugged; evidently the situation appealed to him as a historian rather than as an economist."

"The historic tempo, as well as the industries' tempo," he remarked, "is accelerated in our day. American history, since the colonies fairly could be considered collectively, covers approximately 200 years. From the date of the discovery of the telegraph, the pace has increased steadily."

"At present, weeks may witness a transformation more complete than could have occurred in any whole preceding century."

"Time was when the news of a new international move in the Orient was a year in reaching Washington. Now, before the move is completed, the state department is formulating a policy to meet it."

age bell until one day they ran out of pituitary secretion to give him so he did not get his daily dose, and he broke into a house and recommended his stealing. Which proved apparently that it really was the low pituitary secretion that made him a criminal.

There is a large school of thought which believes the general theory of which this is one example, that peculiar conduct, whether actually criminal or of a less troublesome variety, is due to some physical condition of the body.

whether lack of an essential physical agent or, as is the more popular idea, a small bone pressing on some part of the brain. Unfortunately such ideas cannot be accepted in any whole-hearted spirit for the very good reason that many people have these peculiar chemical deficiencies or pressure on the brain without being criminals, and also because people are criminals with perfectly normal blood chemistry and without bones pressing on the brain.

One would have a little more confidence in the ideas of Dr. Timme, would make up his mind exactly what it is that is the cause of crime. When it is calcium, one year and pituitary deficiency another it causes a natural confusion and prevents one from going out and doing battle for the cause. If it is calcium, there is much work to be done.

Dr. Walter Timme was interviewed on his return from Europe this year and stated that, in his opinion, as the result of research, crime was due to an increase of calcium in the blood of criminals.

So ridiculous is such a pronouncement that one would like to think that Dr. Timme had been misunderstood, or misquoted by a busy reporter with an exaggerated news sense. But Dr. Timme's habit for such pronouncements rather inclines one to a less charitable view.

As a matter of authentic record Dr. Timme stated a few years ago that criminals were caused by lack of pituitary secretions in the blood. He stated it in print under his own name in an article in the magazine section of one of the New York papers.

At that time before calcium had swum into his ken, Dr. Timme had found a young boy who had too little pituitrin in the blood, and the boy was a bad boy, running hither and yon in the neighborhood, going so far as to do a little stealing.

His parents were annoyed at this, and took him to a physician to be examined. Thus it was found that he was suffering from lowered secretion of the pituitary gland.

So he was given some pituitary secretion hypodermically and, lo and behold, he stopped running hither and yon and ceased stealing. All went merry as a marriage bell until one day they ran out of pituitary secretion to give him so he did not get his daily dose, and he broke into a house and recommended his stealing.

Which proved apparently that it really was the low pituitary secretion that made him a criminal. ## Recharge!

[Renew a right spirit within me.—Psalm 51:10.]

HAVE you ever pressed the starter of your car and had it refuse to respond? The chances are that the battery is dead and needs recharging.

Do you find it hard to be patient at home, loyal at work, and unselfish toward others? Inspect your battery—your source of power. You may need more prayer or more quiet time with God. Regular worship at Church, a call on some one in need, an occasional hour with an inspiring book—these will help recharge your run-down battery. Take time to renew your power.

[Parents]

The childhood of today is the foundation of the national and religious structure of tomorrow. In taking your child to Sunday School, you are, by example as well as by precept, laying a foundation for true, Christian citizenship.

FIRST REFORMED CHURCH

N. Detroit at Church
Rev. W. W. Foust, Pastor

The Supper which Christ held with his disciples when he gave them his farewell, must have been full of friendly heart intercourse.

For Christ spoke just as tenderly and cordially to them as a father to his dear little children when he is obliged to part from them. He had patience with them. Never since the world began was there a more delightful meal than that.

—Luther.

Mr. Raymond Wolf will conduct the opening service of the Sunday School at 9:15 a. m. This is followed by class work in charge of the regular teachers.

At the worship hour, 10:30 a. m., the Holy Communion will be administered, new members will be received and an opportunity for the baptism of children extended.

The quintet union service will be held in the Baptist Church and Rev. W. N. Shank will discuss "Pergamos, the Lax Church."

Administratrix of the estate of Matilda McCollum, deceased, Frank H. Dean, Harry D. Smith, Attorneys for Administratrix. 105-16-53-56.

He said, "We're going out tonight, honey."

Lois said, "Yes?"

"I think you'll want to dress up a little, maybe." There was a note in his voice that reminded Lois of a little boy who is trying to keep a secret from his mother.

Lois said, "Oh, I didn't know you had planned anything special."

"Yes sir," he confided, almost unable to contain himself. "I have planned something special, except I didn't know anything about it until just a little while ago. You see—"

Lois thought something was wrong with the connection. She said, "Hello? Hello? Hello?"

Bruce responded, "I'm here, Lois."

Lois said, "Oh, I didn't know you."

Bruce said, "I wasn't saying anything." Then they laughed together.

He continued, "I'll be there to take you home. Then I'll be back after you. After you've dressed."

Lois said, "Is it a surprise?"

Bruce said, "I'll say."

"I look surprised," Margaret said while Lois was getting dressed for the mysterious evening date. "He's bringing his folks to meet you."

Lois had not thought of that, although she had thought about everything else that she could possibly imagine during the last few weeks. That would mean then that he wasn't actually ashamed of her. She would know and for all that he loved her and wanted his folks to know her.

"Arlene said, 'It probably isn't anything to get excited about,' when she said that. I thought she was flurrying about it lately, but now she decided that she simply was going to work and take Bruce away from Lis. She could do it. Of course, she could. It was simple. Lois didn't know anything about handling men. Sat around like a meek little kitten and let Bruce dictate to her. One had to take the reins into her hands herself if she wanted to get anywhere with a man."

Bruce would have tempted any girl when he came to get Lois. He was dressed in a new brown fall suit, with a hat that matched it, from the same cloth. He was brimming over with pep. Lois couldn't understand it.

Arlene apologized to Bruce for the way she was dressed. He didn't pay much attention to her

BRUISED MEATS CAUSED BY CARELESS HANDLING OF STOCK IN SHIPPING

Bruised meats are increasing, according to reports from an Eastern Seaboard packer. Analyses of these reports, made by Geo. F. Henning of the Department of Rural Economics at the Ohio Experiment Station, show that this packing company, from July 22 to August 4, slaughtered 15,831 hogs, of which 6,762 had bruised hams. During August, 26,249 hogs were slaughtered, with 14,196 bruised hams. For this period, assuming two bruised hams for each hog, this packer had 24.8 per cent of his hogs showing bruised, or one out of every four. During July, 1930, bruised meat per hog averaged one-eighth pound per hog for this same slaughterer, whereas for July, 1931, the average per hog was one-fourth pound, or double that of year ago. Without doubt, other packers have witnessed similar increases in bruised meats.

Since this packer purchases many hogs from Ohio, one must assume that livestock marketing agencies are becoming more careless in the handling of livestock. Farmers, truckers, and railroad and stockyard employees should be more careful in handling livestock, for, undoubtedly, it is the rough handling that has caused the increase in bruised meats.

Too many livestock men use canes too forcibly in loading and unloading livestock. Some seem unmindful of the fact that injury easily results from prodding or hitting hogs over the ham or loin. Canes should be used very little. Canvas flapjacks can be used just as effectively as canes to drive hogs and will not cause bruises. If bruising of animals becomes general it will mean that all packers will be compelled to pay less to the farmer in order to cover the additional loss due to bruises. Consequently, every livestock producer has an interest in seeing his livestock marketed with care, particularly, should he see that the trucker loads the livestock at the farm in a careful manner and without bruising. After loading at the farm the responsibility of careful handling falls upon the trucker and the livestock marketing agencies.

PLAN MIAMI VALLEY DAIRY DAY PROGRAM HERE NEXT FRIDAY

Miami Valley Dairy Day will be observed in Greene County Friday, October 30 when dairymen will gather in the assembly room of the court house, Xenia, both forenoon and afternoon, to discuss the problems of their industry.

County Agent E. A. Drake says the program will begin at 10 a. m. J. C. Neff, farm management specialist of Ohio State University will discuss the dairy situation and outlook. Dairy cattle population trends, cold storage holding of dairy products, and relation of milk and butter prices, are some of the problems that will be taken up by Mr. Neff.

Following this discussion Ivan McKellip, dairy production representative of the university, will speak on methods of feeding and herd management best suited to the present economic situation.

The afternoon program will be devoted to marketing problems, with Paul Young, market specialist of the university, speaking in a general way of marketing and the accomplishments of cooperatives throughout the state. The accomplishments and present situation of the Miami Valley Cooperative Milk Producers Association will be discussed by C. W. Lawrence, general manager and Fred Flynn, in charge of the milk marketing division of the association. Ample time will be allowed for discussion and a question box will be used to stimulate dairymen to get their problems before the group.

The Miami Valley Dairy Day is being sponsored by the Greene County locals of the Miami Valley Cooperative Milk Producers Association. John W. Collins, of Cedarville is the representative from this county on the association board of directors. Presidents of the local units are as follows: Cedarville, R. M. Waddle; Xenia, Elmer Hetzel; Yellow Springs, C. J. Melinger; Alpha, R. L. Thomas; Osborn, L. H. Hartley; Bellbrook, Geo. Stutsman; Spring Valley, Geo. Queary and Jamestown, C. B. Franklin.

A covered dish dinner will be served in the basement of the Court House at noon. Committees of two or more women from each local have been appointed to serve on the dinner committee. Each family will be requested to bring a covered dish and sandwiches. Coffee and milk will be furnished by the association. All dairymen are urged to attend this county-wide dairy day to discuss the problems of the county's major industry.

LARGE PRIZE LIST ANNOUNCED FOR BIG HALLOWE'EN CELEBRATION NEXT WEEK

Twenty-three adult prizes and fifteen prizes for children will be awarded participants in the parade in connection with Xenia's Halloween festival Wednesday evening. The parade will form in front of the Post Office, E. Main St., at 7:30 o'clock and those wishing to compete for prizes must take part.

The masqueraders will march west on Main St., past the judges' stand on the south side of the Court House and continue on to King St. The parade will then counter-march on Main to the Post Office and disband. The police department is cooperating with the festival committee and streets where activities will center will be roped off.

The main feature of the contests will be a corn husking contest for adults and cash prizes of $5, $3 and $2 will be awarded in this event. It is urged that all entries be made with Harry Richards at Jobe's by noon Monday. The "buck and wing" contest is also expected to be an outstanding feature and a cash prize of $2.50 will be awarded the winner in this event.

Nine prizes will be awarded in contests for children and five prizes will be awarded contest winners in the adult group. Music for the evening will be furnished by the O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet Band and the committee is planning to make this one of Xenia's best Halloween celebrations.

DEMONSTRATION OF ROCK GARDEN WILL BE CONDUCTED HERE

Victor H. Reis, extension specialist in floriculture of Ohio State University, will conduct a rock garden demonstration at the Asa T. Price residence at Pleasant and West Sts., Tuesday, beginning at 9:30 a. m., according to County Agent E. A. Drake.

The demonstration will consist of the actual construction of a rock garden with Mr. Reis placing the rocks to the best advantage and pointing out some of the fundamental rules that should be observed in rock garden construction.

Besides the discussion and demonstration of desirable types of rocks and the placing of these, the problem of populating the rock garden will be taken up. Plants suitable and adaptable to the conditions which exist will be planted to show how they are worked into the garden, and plants suitable for general garden plantings will be described by Professor Reis. Pools, their construction and care, and the plant and animal life best suited to them will be taken up.

Mr. Price plans to construct a rock garden, pool and sunken garden of unique design which will be of interest to rock garden enthusiasts. The demonstration will begin at 9:30 o'clock with the construction of the garden followed in the afternoon by a tour of nearby gardens already completed.

EIGHTH CIVIL SUIT FILED AGAINST LONG

The number of civil actions pending in Common Pleas Court against T. C. Long, former Xenia real estate broker, mounted to eight Friday when he and the American Surety Co., New York, his bonding company, were named defendants in a suit for $440 filed on behalf of John William Jobe by C. L. Jobe as his attorney in fact.

It is claimed in the petition that John William Jobe listed his farm in Xenia Twp. with Long for sale and that on January 15, 1930 Long sold it to Howard O. Glass and A. C. Glass, receiving a down payment of $1,800 from the purchasers.

The real estate agent's commission in the transaction was $360, leaving a balance of $1,440 due, of which he remitted $1,000 to Jobe but failed to account for the balance of $440, according to the petition. Judgment for the balance of the money is sought. Marshall and Marshall are attorneys for the plaintiff.

NAMED ASSIGNEE

Attorney J. A. Finney, who recently filed in Probate Court a deed of assignment to him from H. F. Street, R. R. No. 5, Xenia, has been appointed assignee in trust for the benefit of creditors of the New Jasper Twp. farmer, under bond of $1,000. A. J. Huston, A. D. Smith and Otis St. John were named appraisers.

The Springfield Purity Dairy, during 12 years in Xenia, has ever striven to maintain a level of quality, in it's products, unequalled by competition. That is the way the Springfield Purity Dairy has grown into the substantial institution it is today. It has laid down definite laws for itself to live up to, regarding the standard of milk to be used and distributed.

It discriminates between different kinds of milk; where that milk comes from; how it is handled and uses only such as comes up to that high set standard. It has always been the active dairy in all matters pertaining to health and sanitation, in relation to milk, in this community.

It always has and always will give the public the benefit of shared profits in lower prices . . . when there is no danger of lowering that SET STANDARD OF QUALITY.

Milk is the cheapest and most beneficial food known to mankind. Buy lots of it; increase your use of it . . . but, buy where there is no lowering of standard for price.
